

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A transport container for storing and transporting punches and dies having a hollow housing for receiving an insert housing that creates a first compartment for receiving punches and defining a second compartment for receiving dies where access to the second compartment is provided by a retractable door pivotally mounted to an end wall of the housing.